Here, at the University of Nottingham, we found a great example of fine political satire done with the dahlia. Do these plants have a smile for you? Will you buy some flowers? Find out more about the original drawings here, and here's a video of the girl sculpted from it. Comments I like the idea of these dahlias! But instead of roses, I would choose lilies for how the lily is a symbol for the Holy Grail, so I am selecting two complimentary flowers. Well done! Thanks for sharing! I guess I didn't quite grasp the idea of the "mise-en-scène". Can someone explain? I was simply viewing the drawing - not understanding the context of the event which the drawing represents? Hi, thanks for the great comments. We add an image with some additional information about the origin of the
